

Huge Revenue Bill Attacked as Vicious as Debate is Begun

Senator LaFollette of Wisconsin Submits Minority Report

Washington, Sept. 3—(AP)—Starting work on the record $3,679,800,000 revenue bill, the Senate accepted today a finance committee proposal to raise an additional $120,500,000 through increased corporation surtaxes.

The amendment would increase the House-approved surtax rates from 5 to 6 per cent on the first $25,000 of net corporate income and from 6 to 7 per cent on income over that level.

Working along on committee amendments to the bill, the Senate accepted a provision incorporating the House-approved 10 per cent special defense tax in the surtax rate schedule. Senator George (D-Ga.) said the change would not affect total revenue but would change individual payments slightly.

The chamber also accepted an amendment permitting persons with $3,000 income or less to file income tax returns on a simplified form.

LaFollette Attack Bill
Terming the bill "a vicious assault on the rank-and-file taxpayer," Senator LaFollette (Prog-Wis.), called on the Senate to reject it and then work out legislation "based upon the sound principle of ability to pay."

LaFollette criticized the bill in a minority finance committee report coincident with issuance of a majority report which estimated that the bill would yield $3,679,800,000 annually, or $463,000,000 more than similar legislation approved by the House. The Senate arranged to start debate on the bill today.

Senator Clark (D-Mo.), a member of the finance group, and other members also expressed disfavor. Clark calling the measure "a hodge-podge hit-or-miss piece of legislation."

Both Clark and LaFollette spoke harshly of a committee amendment lowering income tax exemptions from $2,000 to $1,500 for married persons and from $800 to $750 for single individuals. The majority committee report today said the lowered exemptions would require 4,911,000 additional persons to file income tax returns, and would increase the number of actual income tax payers by 2,256,000.

No Argument for Bill
The majority report contained no general argument in behalf of the tax bill and was devoted almost entirely to outlining terms of the measure.

As to the lowered exemptions, it said that "this broadening of the income tax base is thought to be desirable, particularly during

Four Indicted for Spying as Sixteen Others Face Trial

New York, Sept. 3—(AP)—Three men and an 18-year-old girl were indicted today on charges of conspiracy to violate the espionage act, as the government moved to break up what federal agents described as an international ring of spies operating here and in Spain, Portugal and Germany.

The government charged that the defendants, all in custody, had gathered and transmitted to colleagues in Europe information on the movements and disposition of American forces together with pictures and sketches of strategic points along the eastern seaboard.

Named in the indictment as ringleader was Kurt Frederick Ludwig, 35, who was born in Ohio of German parents.

Working under Ludwig, according to the indictment, were: Miss Lucy Boehmler, 18, of Maspeth, Queens, New York City, who was born in Stuttgart, Germany, and came to New York with her mother and sister in 1929;

Hans Pagel, 20, of Brooklyn, a brewer who was born in Wunstorf, Germany, and came here in 1931; Frederick Edward Schlosser, 19, who was born in New York and lived in Brooklyn.

16 Others on Trial
The indictment, returned a few hours after 16 other persons went on trial in Brooklyn Federal court on espionage charges, said that Pagel and Schlosser were active members of the German-American Youth Movement, which later became a part of the German American Bund. The Ridgewood, Brooklyn, branch to which they were attached was among the most active units in drills and camping activities.

U. S. Attorney Mathias Correa said that Federal Bureau of Investigation agents, in arresting Ludwig, discovered that he had a

Illinois Polio Cases Mount to 154 Today

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 3—(AP)—The state health department announced today that the number of cases of infantile paralysis reported this year in Illinois had climbed to 154, with three new cases in McLean county and one more in Cook county.

Although infantile paralysis is about twice as prevalent as it was last year, Dr. Roland R. Cross state health director, pointed out that the scope of the disease was still far below 1937, the peak year, when 341 cases had been reported at this season.

Of the 154 cases reported this year, 81 were in Cook county and 73 downstate.

Japs 'Deathly Afraid' of U. S. Fleet When It's Kept Intact Says Observer

Washington, Sept. 3—(AP)—A Minnesota congressman, just returned from six weeks of sea duty as a Marine Corps reserve officer, declared today that Japan was "deathly afraid" of the United States fleet when it was in the Pacific.

The legislator-colonel, Rep. Maas (R-Minn.) remarked in an interview that some of the fleet had been withdrawn to the Atlantic, but he expressed the opinion nevertheless that United States forces in the Pacific remain strong enough to fend off any attack against this nation, and at the same time keep open supply routes for vital shipments

Defense Absolutely First Under Orders Given by New SPAB

Board Tells Consumers They Can Expect to Feel Pinch Soon

Washington, Sept. 3—(AP)—The administration gave defense absolutely first call on all the nation's industrial resources today, and consumers were told they could expect to feel the pinch soon.

Keynoting a fresh drive for a manifold increase in arms production, the new Supply Priorities and Allocation Board stated: "Every available man and machine must be employed either on direct defense requirements or at work essential to the civilian economy. . . . Defense comes first."

For most citizens, the pinch will come with the discontinuance of non-essential wares—the frills and the extras of every-day American life.

For a part of the population—manufacturers of non-essential goods and their employees—this may entail added hardship—either temporary suspension of production until the plants are tooled for defense orders, or a complete shut-down in the event such a change-over cannot be effected.

The future course of the defense effort—and its impact on the consumer—was made clear yesterday by twin announcements—one by President Roosevelt to his press conference, and one by the Supply Priorities and Allocation Board he set up last week.

Board's First Meeting
This super-board—now the supreme agency in the whole defense production effort—held its first meeting, with Vice President Wallace presiding, and took up its task of accelerating the output of military supplies.

Roosevelt announced that still more money would be expended for defense orders—the program already tops $50,000,000,000—with the objective of producing still more supplies and of getting two and three shifts to work in the plants.

What was inferential in Roosevelt's statement, the new super-board stated in so many words. "Our general policy is simple," the board announced, outlining its plan of operations. "Production shall be stimulated and organized to the limit of the nation's resources."

"We must forego the less essential that we may have an abundance of the essential. By less essential industry is meant those industrial activities involving use of materials and production facilities which sap supply and machinery resources necessary to a realistic all-out defense program."

"Means Cutting Off Fat"
"In some cases this may involve only a part of an industry; in other cases it may involve several parts. Whenever possible to convert the non-essential to military or essential civilian production this will be done. Every means will be employed to expedite this process with a minimum loss of time for men and machines."

"But the non-essential must go."

Officer's Widow Is Held on Suspicion

Los Angeles, Sept. 3—(AP)—Mrs. Marie M. Tucker, 39, booked on a charge of suspicion of murder, today told authorities she is innocent of the fatal stabbing of her husband, Major George A. Tucker of Fort MacArthur.

The army officer died in a San Francisco hospital July 12, eleven days after he was injured. Military officials said he had stabbed himself while making a sandwich at his San Pedro home.

"I married George the day he graduated from West Point 19 years ago," Mrs. Tucker said. "I loved him then and I still do."

Mrs. Tucker's arrest was followed by some seven hours questioning by police and district attorney's officers.

Capt. Vernon Rasmussen of the police homicide squad said Mrs. Tucker would be held pending presentation of the case to the county grand jury tomorrow or Friday.

"I am here for the purpose of inspecting the old Lincoln highway and to see what can be done to improve it," Green said at Rochelle. "I thought, the only way to do was to see what the people wanted."

700 At Sterling Luncheon
About 700 persons attended the luncheon yesterday noon at Sterling in honor of Green's visit. A jam band of 20 Sterling high school band members, directed by LaVerne Hoerner, entertained.

Most Sterling business houses closed from 1 to 3 p.m. while Green spoke to a large audience of 2,500 persons at the Civic center. Dr. Herbert L. Pettitt of Morrison, Whiteside Republican chairman presided.

In Sterling, Gov. Green stopped to visit D. W. Grandon, 82-year-old Sterling newspaper publisher.

Governor Inspects State Hospital at Dixon Early Today

Starts Second Day of Tour of State With Institution Visit

Governor Dwight H. Green and several department heads of the state administration conducted their first official inspection of the Dixon state hospital today. The governor and his party arrived from the Pine State park, where they spent the night, at about 9:30 this morning, remaining until 11 o'clock when they departed for East Moline to inspect the institution at that place.

Accompanying Governor Green on his inspection of the state hospital here today were Geo. B. McKibben director of the department of finance; Walter Rosenfield director of the department of public works and buildings; and E. F. Chapman, the governor's secretary. Don Hyndman of the Associated Press, Percy Wood of the Chicago Tribune staff and several other newspaper representatives, who are accompanying the executive on his inspection tour over the state, were also in Dixon today.

The governor and his party inspected the new administration building, the female reception cottage, the female childrens infirmary, visited several of the cottages, the occupational building and the assembly and amusement hall.

The governor was conducted around the Dixon institution by Managing Officer Warren C. Murray, after being received by the state hospital band.

At all of his stops Tuesday at Geneva, DeKalb, Rochelle, Ashton, Dixon, Sterling and the White Pines park, the governor spoke informally.

Pledges Economy Program
Besides commenting upon the purpose of his inspection tour, Green on each occasion declared he will practice a program of economy while in office and that the eight million people of the state can expect a dollar's worth of value for every tax dollar collected.

He made known plans to campaign personally next year in support of the proposal, to be submitted to referendum vote in the 1942 election, to amend the state constitution to permit removal of the state sales tax from food.

Wherever Gov. Green traveled yesterday, he met with royal welcome. Bands played, factory whistles blew, children with flags lined streets and roads in tribute to the chief executive's visit. In Rochelle, stores were closed and the streets were lined with thousands of spectators. Loud speakers carried a 15-minute talk by the governor to the large audience. He was formally welcomed by Major W. B. McHenry.

Floods Sweep Western Wisconsin

Wisconsin Floods Subsiding as Red Cross Sends Help

Eau Claire, Wis., Sept. 3—(AP)—Flood waters continued to recede rapidly in northwestern Wisconsin today, but the hundreds who were forced from their homes had another worry as additional rain began to fall.

The Chippewa river, which reached a crest of 22 feet Monday night, had fallen five or six feet. Flooded areas were draining quickly.

Rain began to fall early today. It was light, however, and was not expected to create new hazards unless it continued for an extended period and increased in intensity.

More Rain Forecast
Frank Coleman, government meteorologist at Milwaukee, forecast rain in this region today, tomorrow and Friday.

The Wisconsin river, which devastated farm lands, tore up highways and invaded homes in the Wausau and Merrill region, continued to subside.

In the far north the White and Bad rivers which forced the evacuation of the entire Indian village of Odanah, also were reported receding.

Relief for the estimated 1,600 persons driven from their homes in a seven-county area was being administered by the national Red Cross.

Will County Officers Seek Four Accused of Rape by Joliet Girl

Joliet, Ill., Sept. 3—(AP)—Will county authorities today sought four men, accused by a 22-year-old girl of raping her after slugging her escort on a lonely road.

The girl, whose identity was not revealed, told state police that she and Joseph Cernugel, 25, of Joliet, were returning early yesterday from a picnic when their auto was stopped by another car on a deserted road three miles west of Joliet.

Four men leaped from the car, the girl related, and one of them struck Cernugel on the head, knocking him unconscious. Then, she said, the men carried her to a nearby field where each of them raped her.

The girl was taken to a Joliet hospital for treatment and observation.

Japanese Premier's Admission of Real Crisis Heads News

Comes as British Send Heavy Reinforcements to Singapore Base

(By The Associated Press)
A blunt admission from Japan's premier, Prince Fumimaro Konoye, that his expansionist nation faced the gravest crisis of her history and arrival of new, strong reinforcements for Britain's Singapore bastion capped today's developments in the Far East.

Indian army units, fully motorized and under full fighting kit, along with a British artillery contingent with the very latest tractor-drawn guns, piled out of transports at Singapore.

Konoye told government and war industries representatives that total mobilization was necessary to meet Japan's emergency.

His statement coincided with Japanese-American negotiations for rapprochement now in progress at Washington and growing Japanese concern over shipment of American war supplies to Russia through Vladivostok.

Leaders of Tohokai, extreme nationalist political group, threw their support today to a proposal that Japan set up a "safety zone" which might shut off American supplies to Russia. Konoye has the safety zone proposal under

Word from Soviet Planes Is Awaited

Seattle, Sept. 3—(AP)—Thirteenth naval district headquarters awaited today a flash from the distant navy air base at Kodiak on the departure of a flying Russian military mission on the second leg of its two-plane hop over United States territory en route to Washington, D. C.

The two flying boats, with 47 aviation experts from Moscow and a Russian diplomatic official from Washington, who joined them at home, arrived at Kodiak last night.

Navy headquarters received only a brief message that the big planes arrived at 7:25 P. M. (Pacific Standard Time). There was no information on when the Russians expected to take off.

The new navy base at Sitka, about 700 miles due west across the Gulf of Alaska and the North Pacific, appeared the next likely stopping spot.

The war department in Washington announced yesterday that the Russians were coming to the United States on a "purely technical mission" in connection with airplane production.

German Efficiency Oversteps Self in Campaigning for Shoes of Straw

Berlin, Sept. 3—(AP)—German fashion dictators went to great pains to create a demand for straw shoes this year—and now have suddenly discovered that manufacturers can not meet the demand.

Since rationing limits each person to two pairs of leather shoes a year, the shoe stylists' campaign won instant popularity.

Women and children favored straw shoes during the summer and have begun asking for winter models. Men too were to be supplied.

Invasion Turned on North Fronts; Stalled at Odessa

The War Today!

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Telegraph Special Service)

The London press today blazed with reports of the accusation made in the Trade Union Congress at Edinburgh that Colonel J. T. C. Moore-Brabazon, British minister of aircraft production, had expressed the hope that the German and Russian armies would exterminate each other and leave Britain the dominating power in Europe.

This high-explosive was tossed onto the floor of the labor conference by Jack Tanner, president of the Great Amalgamated Engineering Union, who said he could prove his accusation. Later an authoritative quarter in London said Tanner "evidently refers to a passage in a recent extempore speech which was open to misinterpretation". It also was pointed out that the minister recently said Britain must give the soviet full war support.

Whatever may be the final explanation of what the colonel did say, we of course know that the thought which he is alleged to have advanced doesn't represent the avowed policy of the British government. Britain has announced that she is Russia's ally and will cooperate with Moscow in all ways to win the war.

Anyway, the importance of this incident lies in the fact that the idea of domination of Europe is still knocking about, and apparently isn't confined to the tea-tables of any individual country. We are given a cogent reminder that the roots of the present war—and the last one—were watered by this selfsame spring.

When Herr Hitler inaugurated his program of expansion by force he made it evident that one of his main objectives was to destroy what he claimed was England's overlordship of the continent.

That's where the war began—with the fuhrer's desire to deprive John Bull of his title as policeman of Europe. And, in passing, it may be said that there were few knights in shining armor riding white chargers about in search of maidens in distress at the time that little Czechoslovakia was led to the sacrificial altar.

Like most wars, however, after it got rolling it grew and changed its complexion. Hitler's program expanded with success, until there is no doubt that the very lives of England and other countries are now at stake. It is a life or death struggle.

Death Ends Battle of Two Women Over Man

Aurora, Ill., Sept. 3—(AP)—Death has ended the legal action started by Mrs. Floyd T. Chase to prevent her husband's secretary from visiting his sick room at St. Joseph's hospital.

Chase, 52-year-old president of the Twerdahl-Chase Bottling Company of Aurora and Chicago, died yesterday.

In obtaining a temporary injunction Aug. 7 to restrain Mrs. Elvina Zeppetella, 32-year-old divorcee, from visiting the sick room, Mrs. Chase, 35, charged that the secretary had barred her from the room. Mrs. Zeppetella denied the allegation.

The new navy base at Sitka, about 700 miles due west across the Gulf of Alaska and the North Pacific, appeared the next likely stopping spot.

The war department in Washington announced yesterday that the Russians were coming to the United States on a "purely technical mission" in connection with airplane production.

Stabilization of Russ Forces is Indicated

(By The Associated Press)

The tide of German invasion has been turned before Leningrad and Moscow and stopped at the gates of Odessa, the Russians reported today.

They put the reich's losses in two years of war at close to 3,000,000 killed, wounded and captured—with over 2,000,000 casualties in the Russian war alone.

The Moscow reports, perhaps the most substantial claims thus far to indicate a stabilization of eastern front for the winter months ahead, coincided with the shaping up of arrangements for an American-British-Russian conference at Moscow on collaboration to beat Germany.

President Roosevelt appointed a five-man mission headed by W. Averell Harriman, now in the United States after expediting leave-lend aid in London. Lord Beaverbrook probably will head the British mission.

Reds Retake Villages
In this claimed resurgence of Red army power the Russians said they had retaken 22 villages in a 10-day, 30-mile counter thrust on the center of the main front before Moscow, destroyed an entire division of the elite schutzstaffel (blackshirt Hitler infantry), and driven the Germans back three miles from their advanced positions before Leningrad, at the northern end of the main front.

Leningrad had been under the direst threat. The Germans claimed yesterday to have driven to within 20 miles of this second largest city of the soviet union. The proximity of the threat to Moscow has never been clarified but the Germans were known once to have passed beyond Smolensk, to the Viazynia area about 125 miles southwest of the capital.

A strategically important town, otherwise unidentified, was said to have fallen to the counter-attack of Leningrad's newly inspired defenders.

While the Leningrad forces were executing their stroke under the personal command of Marshal Klementi Voroshilov troops on the center were wresting an important height from the blackshirted nazis. According to the combined accounts of Red Star, the army newspaper, and Pravda, organ of the communist party.

Mass Experiments on Bolivian Tribe May Defeat Typhus

Washington, Sept. 3—(AP)—High in the Andes mountains, three eminent scientists and thousands of Bolivian miners are participating in a mass medical experiment that may save millions of lives when the present European war ends.

During the coming year, the scientists, using Indian miners in isolated villages as patients, will determine whether a new, cheaply-produced vaccine for typhus fever is the long-sought cure for the dread disease that usually follows wars.

The importance of the Bolivian experiment is evidenced by the fact that during the four years following the first World War more people died of typhus than were killed or wounded during the actual conflict.

The sanitary bureau of the Pan-American Union, acting as intermediary between the Bolivian and United States governments, disclosed today details of the two-nation experiment.

U. S. Discovery
The vaccine, which already has been used successfully on animals, was discovered by Dr. Harold R. Cox at the U. S. Public Health Service laboratory, Hamilton, Mont.

Dr. Hugh S. Cumming, former surgeon general who is now director of the Pan-American bureau, believes the Cox serum will accomplish the two medical imperatives: control the disease and lend itself to cheap mass production.

The highest typhus rate in the western hemisphere is in Bolivia. The disease is most prevalent in crowded one-street villages where the Indian miners live.

The Pan American bureau said between 10,000 and 20,000 Bolivians would be included in the mass treatment. Half of them will be given real vaccine; the other half a sterile salt solution. At the end of a year the scientists will know how successful the vaccine is on humans.

FRANK PRIEBE'S WEEKLY LETTER to POULTRY RAISERS

This last week I have had inquiries from turkey growers in Iowa, Kansas, Missouri, and Minnesota asking if they shouldn't sell their turkeys.

Almost automatically you say NO to that question this early in the season. Turkeys need a little cool weather before they're really ripe. Some people say that's an old-fashioned notion, but for one reason or another, it always seems to work out that way.

Just the other day I was talking with a man who buys thousands of turkeys every year. "The average person wants to sell his turkeys at least two weeks before they are ready," he told me. "Some of the growers in my territory are beginning to get impatient. But the turkeys aren't ready. And even though I know better than to buy them, it's hard to turn them down. So I'm going fishing for a few weeks!"

Big Toms Bring Premium

When you come to sell your turkeys this year, you may be surprised to find that the toms will bring more than the hens. Right now fresh young toms are quoted 2 to 3 cents more than hens and the few that are on the market are actually selling for about 4 cents more.

A year ago it was just the other way around. The hens were bringing 4 cents more than the toms!

This is a good illustration of how, over a period of time, a certain balance is maintained in the market.

There is a good reason why the situation has reversed itself:

Last year, when the big tom turkeys were so much less expensive than the others, hotels and restaurants started using them and found out they got more meat for their money than they did off the smaller turkeys or off chickens.

"Finest Herd in Illinois"

—Telegraph Photo

More than 300 stock raisers from northern Illinois visited the Ort Acres farm in Palmyra township recently on a tour sponsored by the Purina Feed company of Milwaukee.

Charles Ortgiesen of Milwaukee, formerly of Dixon, was host to the men at his cattle farm where the visitors viewed 182 2-year-old Texas Herefords.

The herd, part of which is shown above, has been on the Ortgiesen farm for 10½ months having been shipped direct to Dixon from Amarillo, Texas. These animals are to be marketed on Oct. 15 and another herd of 280 head will be started.

Robert Ely is manager of the Ort Acres farms and Paul Kesselring is manager of the farm on which this exceptionally fine herd of Herefords has been made ready for the market. A Chicago commission expert viewed the herd recently and pronounced it to be the finest in Illinois.

Charles Ortgiesen, who now operates four large shoe factories and a huge tannery in Milwaukee, is a former Dixon boy. As a young man, he entered the employ of the Watson Plummer Shoe company, where he learned the trade as shoe cutter, later became department foreman, and today ranks as one of the leading shoe manufacturers in the country.

He has acquired five farms, three in Palmyra township, one east of Polo and another near Monroe Center. In the near future he plans to build a home near Dixon. He takes a great interest in stock farming and has been very successful.

Soil Conservation District May Be Organized in Ogle

Information from the Farm Bureau office at Oregon indicates that the next step to make soil conservation service available to Ogle county farmers may be the organization of a soil conservation district. A soil conservation district, it is explained, is a public body set up under the provisions of the Illinois Conservation District Law which gives the land owners included in the district a chance to work together in solving their own soil and water conservation problems. A district does not have authority to make assessments, levy taxes nor issue bonds but may secure the services of trained technicians to give assistance to its members in soil conservation work. Farmers receiving such assistance would furnish their own materials and labor and follow the advice given by the technical men. The organization would be managed by an elected board of directors and would operate under authority of the state soil conservation committee and a charter of incorporation from the state.

Several such districts are now being planned in the state and three or four it is said are now in operation. Through the agricultural extension service and Farm Bureau information will be given on this plan through community meetings so that if farmers in Ogle county are interested in it they may have an opportunity to request a hearing and obtain a date for a referendum at which farmers in the proposed district may vote for or against such a district.

Rosenkrans Advises Wheat Farmers To Stay Within Quotas

Dale D. Rosenkrans, chairman of the Lee County Agricultural Conservation committee, points out that the wheat surplus and the prospect of wheat marketing quotas in 1942 make it advisable for wheat growers to plant within AAA farm program allotments when they seed winter wheat this fall.

The carryover of wheat in the United States on July 1, 1941 was about 595 million bushels, compared with 284 million last year and 570 million in 1933, the previous record. The July crop report estimated the 1941 wheat crop at 924 million bushels. Only four crops have been larger.

These wheat supplies, Mr. Rosenkrans explained, are large enough to meet domestic requirements for seed, flour and feed for two years. With large supplies on hand in other countries and practically all export markets cut off by war blockades, there is little prospect of foreign sales taking care of surpluses.

Prevent Excessive Production

By planting within AAA allotments, farmers cooperate collectively to prevent excessive production. The national wheat allotment for 1942 has been cut from 62 million acres to 55 million acres. In Lee county the allotment has been reduced from 5959 acres for 1941 to 5254 acres for 1942. Farm allotments have been cut proportionately.

Because of the huge supply, department of agriculture officials expect that marketing quotas will be necessary next year. The quota plan will be subject to approval by two-thirds of wheat growers voting in a referendum next spring. Under the quota system, any farmer who plants wheat in excess of his allotment is subject to paying a penalty on his excess wheat or storing it under bond or escrow.

Railroads Join In Rate Reduction to Speed Oil Shipments

Philadelphia, Sept. 3.—(AP)—A railroad spokesman announced Tuesday that eastern and western railroad lines have joined in a 50 per cent crude oil freight rate reduction to facilitate shipments from the southwestern fields to the east coast.

The present rate is five cents per gallon. The proposed reduction, varying according to the length of the haul, would leave the cost of train-shipped oil a cent and a half a gallon above the steamship tanker rate of one cent.

Samuel B. Eckert, vice president in charge of sales of the Sun Oil company, said that the proposed lower freight rates would be helpful to some extent in lessening the gasoline shortage in the Atlantic coast states.

WHAT'S ALL THIS ABOUT MOTOR OIL
WEARING thicker?

6 cars driven to Death in torrid Death Valley—to settle today's bad puzzlers for you. Know the answers—and Save.

Not long back you'd never heard of muddy sludge, sticky varnish and other troubles "goo" coming from motor oils. But today you're even told of oils thickening up like a mess of paint in an open can, when your worst worry used to be oils wearing too thin!

You're puzzled if you're not a technical man, and can only judge by how long your oil and engine last. Therefore you can appreciate first of all having the Certified Mileage Record from the

Daring Death Valley Destruction Test of CONOCO Nth MOTOR OIL

This oil went "up against the blaze" in Death Valley—where heat hits record highs (official). Here Conoco Nth faced 5 other representative big-name oils, in a Certified Test to the death.

6 identical new stock cars were first turned inside out to check uniformity. Then each got one strict 5-quart fill of some oil...locked in by the Referee.

And each held the same 57-mile pace, over the same desert, without one added drop, till its oil hit bottom and the engine "went out like a light!"

Conoco Nth motor oil lasted 13,398 miles on one 5-quart fill, outlasting one "rival" by 8,268 miles. And even the runner-up in the test was outlasted 5,683 miles by Conoco Nth. This is all Officially Certified, yet anything so remarkable demands explanation.

New oil Economy aid... Man-made

Man-made or synthetic betterment of motor oils has long been the keystone of Conoco success. For example, the celebrated Germ Processed oil patent on the use of a synthetic with magnet-like action has made it possible to give engines OIL-PLATING. This lasting form of lubricant can't all quickly drain down—but must stay plated up throughout the engine...on guard against wear in advance, while you use Conoco Nth oil.

Now in addition to OIL-PLATING, assured by Conoco Nth oil, it brings the newest synthetic life-giver, called "Thialkene inhibitor." This inhibits or checks the rapid breakdown of the extremely refined oil demanded for present day motoring. That's why Conoco Nth oil didn't quickly churn up deadly "goo" in Death Valley, but outlasted 5 high-rated brands—by 74% up to 161%. And even though you cannot think of exceeding the oil-change periods specified for your car and driving conditions, it's great to think of skipping many a stop for a quart. Read about that right on your own engine gauge-stick. You'll see...just change today to Conoco Nth at Your Mileage Merchant's Conoco station. It's popular-priced. Continental Oil Company—Pioneers in Bettering America's oil with Synthetics

CERTIFIED I hereby certify that the Death Valley Test and related work were thoroughly and fairly conducted. Engine Destruction occurred in each case at the mileage stated.

"Bill and Mary" Off the Air Permanently

Tulsa, Okla., Sept. 3.—(AP)—The story of "Bill and Mary," the homespun couple from the Ozarks known to radio fans throughout the southwest, is ended.

William H. Sloat, 60, author of the radio play in which he had played the part of "Bill" for 11 years, died today of a lingering heart ailment.

Mrs. Leona Anderson, who was "Mary," said she would not attempt to continue the act without its author and leading character. "There will be no more Bill and Mary," she said.

Sloat first introduced the "Bill and Mary" act over station WCBS at Springfield, Ill., in 1930 and later produced it over stations in St. Joseph, Mo., Kansas City, Springfield, Mo., and Tulsa.

It was the third most popular serial on KVOO at Tulsa. Sloat's death came just as negotiations were underway to put the show on a national network.

A Thought For Today

Be not afraid, only believe.—Mark 5:36.

God is not dumb, that He should speak no more; if thou hast wanderings in the wilderness and find'st not Sinai, 'tis thy soul is poor.—Lowell.

Forty Miles

In the interests of safety, national defense and conservation of resources, the head of the Pennsylvania state police organization suggests that a nation-wide 40-mile-an-hour speed limit be imposed upon automobiles.

We were not favored with the whole statement issued by the Pennsylvania official, but we assume that he realized such a limit could not be effected by voluntary action. Built-in governors, installed in such a way that they could not be adjusted, might do the trick. Most new cars are so quick on the feet, so to speak, that it is difficult to keep them under 40 miles an hour on the open highway. A rattle-trap that couldn't make 40 would be disassembled by the junk man.

While we do not advocate a forced 40-mile limit for competent drivers, it is difficult not to imagine that such a speed might be good for the general welfare. The object of fast driving, aside from the thrills of speed, is to save time. What do most of us do with the time we save? As for the thrills obtained from high speed, it can not be denied that every time we "step her up" from 50 to 60, then to 70, and finally to 80 or more, we have deliberately shaken hands with St. Peter, or whoever is on duty at the pearly gates at that particular shift.

While the Pennsylvania was recommending a national 40-mile limit for all drivers, good and bad, there were, and are, hundreds of thousands of alleged motorists who ought not to be permitted to drive cars at all. We know of one who simply can't park his car, so he leaves it standing in the street. We have heard of one who gets all confused at a stop-light, so he goes on through, expecting others to recognize and excuse his disability.

There is no sense in clapping a 40-mile limit on all motorists until police officials have weeded out the incompetents, and until laws have been written to support such police action.

WANT-AD ROMANCE

BY TOM HORNER

CHAPTER IX

THOUGHT AWAKENING for brighter intellects. Gain new power from an entirely unknown source. Take advantage of your opportunity today. Address Roy-tay.

TED ANDREWS clipped the advertisement from the paper, carefully tucked it into his bill-fold. He had waited patiently for this, ever since he mailed a letter to Washington a week ago.

It was apparently an innocent message concerning some new thought process, but to Ted it said that FBI agents were investigating certain individuals and that an agent would contact him today. Meanwhile, he was ordered to keep a close check on all parties connected with Wondrosap.

Kay could have no interest in selling her product to a foreign power—unless the price offered was astonishingly high. She could only stand to lose everything if the plot was uncovered.

That left Mary Marshall, Hans Stadt, and Joe Benton.

Mary apparently knew nothing of chemistry. She had come to work for Kay long before there was any idea that Wondrosap was anything more than a cleaner.

Was Hans Stadt as loyal to America as he professed to be? Ted recalled stories of other loyal American citizens who had been forced to co-operate with Nazi agents to protect relatives in Germany. Was Hans a victim of such pressure?

And Joe Benton. Kay had taken him at face value. But Ted had not. But Benton's story rang true. He was a professor of chemistry at the university. But even that might be a blind.

At any rate, they would know today, when the federal agents arrived.

Ted hurried into the office. . . . KAY, Mary, and Joe Benton were there. Joe was excitedly explaining his latest success. "We followed the formula we found in your father's papers, Kay. It was astonishingly simple. I didn't even let Hans see how it was mixed. That secret belongs to you and to Uncle Sam. Then we made a sample run of Wondrosap. The stuff reacts exactly as that your father manufactured. You can't tell the difference. We've made it!"

"Thanks to you, Joe," Kay's eyes were tear-bright. "Now the government can take over the plant, start operations at once." "You're worth a lot of money now, Kay," Mary said. "This formula would be priceless to any government." Ted caught his breath at the girl's words. "But there's only one government that's going to get it!" he said grimly.

Joe Benton broke the tension. "We've made all the tests on Wondrosap except one. Old Hans says a bullet won't explode it, but we've never tried that. How about a test and a little target practice? I picked up this target pistol today, just to try it out."

"Swell idea," Kay agreed. "We want a full report for the Army officers."

Was this the payoff? Ted wondered. Kay and Joe led the way out of the office. Mary paused to pick up her suede jacket. Ted didn't miss that, either. Why should she need a jacket on a warm summer day? Maybe Mary and Joe . . .

The formula was locked in the newly purchased safe, and only Kay knew the combination. He would stay close to Kay.

JOE stopped in the laboratory to get the pistol and a half-empty can of Wondrosap.

"We'll shoot at Ted's kindling pile," Benton directed. "Then if there is an explosion, there will be little damage. There's not much Wondrosap in this can, so the danger is minimized."

Ted stood at Kay's elbow while Benton arranged the target. "Who wants the first shot? Kay, you take a try at it. You better stand well away. That kindling wood will spread around if it does go off."

Kay took the gun from him and, standing well back, took careful aim. Her bullet plowed into the pile of wood, missed the target entirely. Joe reloading, handed the gun to Mary Marshall.

Mary paused for a minute, then swung the pistol up to eye level. There was a sharp "Crack!" The Wondrosap can disappeared. Joe ran to the kindling pile, searched for a minute, then raised the can high.

"That's real shooting, Mary!" he shouted. "You hit the middle 'O' due center."

Ted saw her drop the target pistol, but he did not see her draw the other gun from her jacket pocket. It was an ugly, snub-nosed automatic.

"All right, Joe Benton. Come in—with your hands up!" All the softness was gone from the girl's voice. Quiet, unassuming Mary, covering Benton with a gun! Ted gasped.

"Mary!" Kay screamed. Ted caught her arm.

"Let her alone!" he ordered.

The 'New Disorder' in Europe

The dull, sickening crash of the guillotine sounds in Paris, and the old Sante prison runs red with blood as the pages of history flip back 150 years.

What is the crime of Frenchmen who are dying today in Paris at the hands of Frenchmen? They are against the Germans. Yes, it has come to that! Frenchmen are dying in Paris in 1941 because they are against the Germans and against a kind of German system that the German conquerors of 1870 dared not even try to inflict on beaten Frenchmen.

The script for the next act is already written—written by Hitler himself years ago in "Mein Kampf." He personally admired the stern measures which the French took when they occupied the Ruhr, especially as the ineffective measures taken by his political opponents within Germany to defeat them were glist for his mill. But as he watched the feeble attempts of the Cuno government to combat the French occupation, Hitler himself set down what he would do if he were the French. What should an occupying army do if sabotage, passive resistance, and such tactics finally get in its hair? Hitler's answer for putting "a ghastly finish" to this "childish mischief" in a week was "the most violent, bloodiest persecution."

This, one may be sure, his vice fuhrers in France will now carry on. Every decent person in France who has at any time been reluctant to cheer and whoop for nazism now stands in danger of his life. And we may be sure, on the formula long since established as early as the Reichstag fire of 1933, that everyone who is arrested, killed, or otherwise punished will be set down as a Communist plotter.

But not by the Germans themselves. This also Hitler noted: that in the case of conquered countries there are always people who "contrive to feel not so badly, since they not infrequently are entrusted by the crafty victors with the job of slave overseer, which these characterless natures then exercise over their own people, at that generally more heartlessly than any alien beast placed over them by the enemy himself."

Should there be any in France who seem increasingly well described by such graphic phrases, we hope Monsieur Henri-Haye will remember that they are Hitler's phrases, not ours.

Another Step Back to the Cave

Newest step in the campaign to reduce Europe to rubble is the destruction of the great Dnieper River Dam by the Russians, who would see this symbol of Lenin's dream of an industrialized Russia wrecked before they would see it used by a ruthless invader.

Finished in 1932 under supervision of the American engineer, Hugh L. Cooper, with machinery built by General Electric (now also destroyed) this great dam meant much to Russia. The determination to sacrifice it rather than yield it speaks volumes for the steadfastness of Russian resistance, now and later. It is one more loss for Russia, for Europe, and for the world, but its immediate military value is suggested by the Russian limerick:

A muzhik along by the Dnieper

Was harvesting grain with a reaper.

The Nazis came by,

But he said, "Win? My eye!

"They're just getting in deeper and deeper!"

Minister of Bethel Church Comes Back For Another Year

Local Congregation Well Pleased; Church Ranks High in Conference

The Rev. R. S. Wilson, who has been pastor of the Bethel United Evangelical church on North Galena avenue for the past year, was returned to his charge for another year by the annual conference of his denomination at Highland Park. The conference closed Sunday evening with the reading of the appointments for the coming year. Several families from Dixon were present for the occasion.

Eight congregations received a change of pastors. The Rev. Paul D. Gordon, former pastor of Bethel church is returned to Canton, Ohio church for another year; the Rev. Richard Taubenheim, who entered the ministry from Dixon a year ago, was returned for a second year to his mission congregation at Mansfield, Ohio; the Rev. Frank Brandell, former pastor of Grace church was transferred from Chicago, Kimball avenue, to Youngstown, Ohio to replace the Rev. N. J. Broadway, who was elected presiding elder for the Western district.

The new presiding elder will administer the work in the state of Illinois and will also serve as pastor at Hoopole, where he will reside. Previous to this arrangement, a presiding elder residing in Ohio has administered the general interests of the churches of the group located in Illinois for the past ten years. The Rev. C. G. Unangst, former pastor of Grace church and the organizer of Bethel church, continues as a supernumerary minister and resides at La-Grange, Ind.

Other Changes Made

Other changes affecting ministers known here include the transfer of the Rev. Paul Dunn of Cedarville to Findlay, Ohio. He is replaced at Cedarville by the Rev. Gus Simpson of Hoopole. The Rev. A. G. Masser of Findlay is transferred to Hubbard, O.; the Rev. C. F. Rissmiller of Talmadge Avenue church, Akron, goes to Delightful charge near Warren, Ohio. Two new men were received into the ranks of the conference ministers—the Rev. B. S. Hoppes coming from Reading, Pa. to Akron, Ohio, and the Rev. Samuel Obetz of Kutztown, Pa. coming to Chicago, Kimball Avenue.

The local church will be affected only by one change: the Rev. N. J. Broadway, the new presiding elder will make the quarterly visits to Dixon, instead of the Rev. Q. A. Deck of Akron, Ohio, who has been doing this for the past two years.

Heidenreich Returned

The Rev. R. R. Heidenreich has been returned as pastor of St. James congregation in South Dixon which has an affiliated relationship with the conference. Both Mr. Heidenreich and Mr. Wilson appeared on the conference program and served on important committees. Pastor Heidenreich served on the committee known as the Lord's Day, Temperance and Spiritual State of the Church. Pastor Wilson served as chairman of the Finance committee and the Committee on War and Peace, as well as serving on the Statistical committee and acting as pianist and conference reporter.

The Bethel congregation of Dixon ranked high among the congregations of the conference in comparative status. The local church ranked first in average attendance at church services, Sunday school and prayer services. The church ranked second in membership and third in the amount of money raised and contributed.

Mr. Wilson expects to preach in his pulpit next Sunday at the morning and evening service. Plans are being made for their fall revival campaign during the latter part of October with the Rev. Sylvester Sanford of Galesburg as the evangelist in charge.

The Rev. R. W. Taubenheim expects to spend a few days in Dixon visiting relatives before returning to his pastorate in Mansfield. He is expected to speak at the prayer service in Bethel church this evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Capone and 14 Aides Sued For $119,367 as Due on Illegal Beer

Chicago, Sept. 3.—(AP)—The government sued Al Capone and 14 other men today for $119,367 in taxes on beer the Capone syndicate brewed during the prohibition era.

The civil action demanded payment of that amount, plus interest, penalties and court costs, to meet unpaid levies on 19,894 barrels of the bootleg product manufactured and sold between Jan. 6, 1921, and May 1, 1932.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON
(Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc. Reproduction in Whole or in Part Strictly Prohibited.)

Washington, Sept. 2.—Regardless of what Roosevelt may have told Churchill about the state of American opinion and vice versa, all the U. S. government officials coming back from London are saying privately we will have to get in this war in the final action (invasion of the continent) if Britain is to win. Their story is, Britain will have enough to stalemate the clash, with what she gets from us under lease-lend, etc., but that she will need our navy and perhaps army to clean the nazis out in the final phase.

This is not entirely a new notion, but it is being newly emphasized in the discussions of the officials who have been to London.

Keep your eye on Social Security Administrator Paul McNutt in the political picture. It will not be difficult. McNutt has taken steps to save you from strain. Some weeks back he moved his own publicity man, Jesse Irvin, in over various other unit publicity men in his administration social security board, public health, office of education, etc. The shift has lately been supplemented by orders that all publicity clear through Irvin. Thus when the social security board announces something, you are apt to read, not that board chairman Altmeyer announces it, but that McNutt does. The new arrangement will provide continuous announcements for McNutt right on up to the 1944 Democratic convention if we all live that long.

Only agency in the McNutt jurisdiction to escape this compression of all personalities into his, is the Civilian Conservation Corps. Its leaders have equal cabinet rating, and thus will continue to express themselves in their own names.

This new defense theory the Russians have developed is one which may revolutionize warfare also, although the U. S. general staff has not yet considered it in that light, according to some military authorities. The Red scheme may be called "the goblet defense." Lay a thin stemmed goblet down on the table and you will get the idea. Large armies are left in the cup part, connected back with the base line by the stem, maintained for communications and supplies. The Reds have weakened their lines to let the Germans be drawn in on either side of the cup, then the large force in the cup cuts loose right and left against the German flanks. Nothing like it has ever been done before in war.

That is one reason progress of the campaign is almost impossible to follow accurately.

Sputtering and fuming around town has been a southern shipbuilder, normally chivalrous, but not in this instance. He tells how he was summoned to Washington to talk about a navy contract for defense. The commercial airline down south told him all seats in the plane were taken, but that if he could persuade the wife of a defense official to let him ride in a second section alone with her, he might be able to make the trip. Why did she have a second section to herself? Well, you see she was at a costume party and did not want to have the other passengers gawping at her. The airline has given her the extraordinary courtesy of a queen for a single ticket. They like to keep in good with the government.

The shipbuilder got the lady's permission, but apparently is not grateful. He still thinks his business of a navy defense contract was more important . . . probably never been to a costume party.

Some scalawag noted that the framed portraits of former War Secretaries had been taken down in the munitions buildings to allow painting of the walls. He also noticed the painters had left behind a warning sign upon which was printed, the one word: "wet." With a flash of something that could pass for artistic genius, he removed the sign from the wall, and pinned it upon the stern, stiff portrait of Henry L. Stimson, the now and old war secretary. There it remained many hours: "Henry L. Stimson, wet," until a guard, noticing the amusement of gathering groups gently removed it.

BALL PLAYER SUSPENDED FOR ASSAULT ON SCOREKEEPER

Durham, N. C., Sept. 3.—(AP)—In what is believed to be the first case of its kind, Fred Shoemaker, a player on the Oil City club in the Pennsylvania State league, has been suspended from organized baseball for one year for an assault upon an official scorer.

Judge W. G. Bramham, president of the National Association, said yesterday Shoemaker admitted in a written statement he spit in the face of Joe Szarfian, Oil City newspaperman who was serving as official scorer at a game on August 7. The two had argued over whether a ball hit by a player was an error or a hit. Szarfian ruled it an error.

TRAFFIC FATALITY

Princeton, Ill., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Helviah S. Bender, Jr., about 19, of Detroit, Mich., was killed yesterday and a companion, Andrew Bleetscher, also of Detroit, was injured when their automobile and a truck collided near here.

Find Boy Victim of Monday Crash Died From Strangulation

Coroner's Jury Probes the Death of Lawrence Scholl, Aged 13

A coroner's jury late yesterday afternoon concluded that strangulation, resulting from crushing chest injuries, caused the death of 13-year-old Lawrence Scholl, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Scholl of route 1, Dixon, in an automobile crash Monday evening. The inquest was conducted by Coroner Frank E. Nangle at the Staples funeral home yesterday afternoon at 4:00 o'clock. State's Attorney Morey C. Pires was present and questioned some of the many witnesses and Attorney H. C. Warner appeared in behalf of Arnold Spangler, 19, of Nachusa, who was the driver of the other car involved in the collision, details of which were published in Tuesday evening's Telegraph.

Spangler testified that he was on his way to his home in Nachusa Monday evening after a visit at Lowell park, the Pines state park and in Grand Detour and as he approached the Heagy corner at a speed of 35 to 40 miles an hour, he sounded his horn. When a short distance of the corner, he continued, he observed the Scholl car coming from the west and attempted to stop, but very loose gravel prevented his stopping and in the crash resulted which turned the Spangler car around.

Boy Pinned Under Car

Spangler and his companion assisted Frank Scholl, driver of the east bound car, from his overturned machine which had struck a concrete culvert, breaking off a section of the headwall, then rolled over on its side into the ditch, a portion of the car pinning the youthful victim beneath the car. Their efforts to lift the overturned machine were of no avail and Assistant Supervisor Leon A. Garrison, who heard the crash at his home and was the first to arrive at the scene, summoned Henry Hintz and son Ted, who with others succeeded in releasing the boy.

Frank W. Scholl, father of the victim, testified that he and his son were driving east on the recently improved road, en route to Franklin Grove. The father was driving the car and as he approached the corner, he testified, he heard a warning horn and suddenly saw the Spangler machine coming south on the cross road. According to his testimony, he estimated his driving speed at from 40 to 45 miles an hour and added that he believed that the speed his car was traveling would be sufficient to carry it across the road ahead of the approaching machine.

View Obstructed

Garrison, Dr. Howard M. Edwards, Sheriff Gilbert P. Finch, Fred W. Leake, county superintendent of highways, Theodore R. Hintz, Henry Hintz and Miss Helen Keller were other witnesses called to testify at the inquest.

The testimony developed the fact that a corn field obstructs the view of motorists traveling east or south at the intersection, until they are a few feet from the corner, which has been the scene of several accidents. A few weeks ago one mile of the east and west road was improved with the application of a black top surface, extending from state route, No. 2 to the Heagy corner, scene of the collision.

2,495,000,000 Bushel Corn Crop Predicted

Chicago, Sept. 3.—(AP)—A domestic corn crop of 2,495,000,000 bushels, about 46,000,000 larger than last year's harvest, was forecast today by four Chicago crop experts on the basis of latest surveys.

The experts lowered their estimates 107,000,000 bushels from Aug. 1 figures due to crop deterioration as a result of heat and drought.

Three estimates of domestic soybean production ranged from 97,000,000 to 110,000,000 bushels. Harvest last year totaled 79,837,000 bushels and the previous record crop was 91,272,000 bushels in 1939. Oats production was estimated at 1,140,000,000 bushels compared with 1,236,000,000 last year.

The United States imported 662,577 pounds of inedible tallow during the second quarter of 1940.

U. S. Saved Isles From Invasion, Lucas Says

Peoria, Ill., Sept. 3.—(AP)—The United States would be in the war today, says Senator Scott W. Lucas, if congress had "followed the isolationists in this crisis".

Speaking at an American Legion dinner honoring the new state commander, N. Curtis Cation of Peoria, the Illinois Democrat declared last night that if isolationists had been in "control of congress, there wouldn't have been any arms or goods sold to England".

He credited American aid with saving Britain from a German invasion attempt.

"Without the help of the United States England today would be on her knees. Instead of Hitler going into Russia, he would have attempted to invade the British Isles".

State Farmers Get 45% More Income In June This Year

Springfield, Ill.—(AP)—Illinois
farmers received 45 per cent more in cash income during June this year than during the previous June, it was reported yesterday by J. H. Jacobson, federal agricultural statistician here.
The cash income reported from farm marketings and government payments in the state for June, 1941 was $52,091,000, an increase of $16,238,000 over the $35,853,000 total reported for June, 1940.
During the first half of this year, Illinois farm income was $294,448,000 compared with $268,
279,000 for the first half of 1940
—a gain of approximately ten per cent.
The information was contained in the department of agriculture's weekly crop review which said that late corn, soybeans and pastures were materially benefited by the moderate to heavy rains that occurred rather generally over the state during the last week.
The review said:
"The rains and cooler weather were welcomed in the commercial fruit areas where normal sizing of pears and late varieties of apples has been retarded by hot, dry weather."
Corn Matures Rapidly
"The corn is maturing more rapidly than usual with about 58 per cent of the crop expected to be safe from frost by September 1

It was generally agreed that our town needs and our young people deserve something better in the line of recreation than we now have. Some of the means suggested were: 1. Two Extradition Orders Filed With Secretary

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Two extradition orders approved by Governor Green were filed Tuesday in the secretary of state's office.

One permitted the extradition from Chicago to Denver, Colo., of Mrs. Fay Allison of Denver to face charges of robbery and grand larceny. The complaint charged Mrs. Allison with complicity in the theft July 6th of a diamond ring from Margaret H. Dodge and Hollis Sneed while the three were in a Denver hotel.

The other order approved removal of Jule Alpert from Chicago to St. Paul, Minn., his home, where he escaped from police officers, the complaint said, after being convicted of driving an automobile after his driver's license had been revoked.

Viscount Halifax May Not Return to U. S.

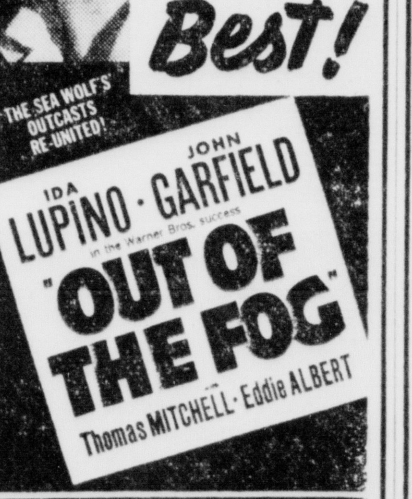

London, Sept. 3.—(AP)—There has been published speculation that Viscount Halifax might not return to the United States as ambassador. It was said in these accounts that both he and Sir Samuel Hoare were being considered for the post of viceroy of India.

Informed persons, however, deprecated these notions, along with one that Capt. Oliver Lyttelton, now special representative of the war cabinet in the middle east, might replace the viscount in Washington.

Lord Halifax himself said upon his arrival from the United States two weeks ago that he expected to return shortly.
